To my fellow manufacturers:

I would like to share with you that Southington Tool & Mfg. Corp. recently retained the services of NASC. NASC is a member of a trade organization we belong to. A few other member companies used their services with good results -- on their recommendation we welcomed the opportunity to work with NASC.

NASC performs utility cost reduction (audit) services. Through their investigation NASC found there to be errors on our billing statements. Southington Tool was due a nice credit and future invoices are to be corrected. This was quite a simple process for us as NASC worked with the Utility companies to correct the errors and issue the credit.

NASC invoiced Southington Tool a percentage of the credit we were owed making the process that much more pleasant. The process was not time consuming and we had little involvement once we shared our gas and electric bills with them.

It might be worth taking a look into NASC to see how they can help reduce your utility bills.

Sincerely,
